

African and European Mayors Statement on COVID-19 vaccine equity

The discovery of the Covid-19 Omicron/ B1.1.529 variant - first identified in South Africa but now rapidly spreading in Europe and beyond - is a wakeup call for governments everywhere that no-one is safe until everyone is safe.

That only 7% of the population in African countries is fully vaccinated is endangering the health of billions as well as hampering the economic and social recovery.

As mayors of African and European cities we are leading the frontline response to the COVID-19 pandemic. With fellow global mayors we have called for equal access to vaccines as a key element of a green and just recovery. We have also repeatedly offered our support to governments and inter-governmental institutions.

We can make a real difference to minimize the impact of Covid-19 in our cities, but only if and when all urban residents in Africa and Europe have equal access to vaccines.

We need a coordinated and global response to ensure vaccines can get to people faster. Building on what so many are calling for around the world, we ask global leaders to take urgent action to improve access to vaccines for all and specifically to accelerate vaccination in Africa, where rates are the lowest in the world.

We specifically call on global leaders to:

- Accelerate sharing of vaccines between European and African countries;
- Support local distribution of vaccines and delivery capabilities in African countries, especially where existing health systems are struggling under the additional pressures posed by the pandemic;
- Engage mayors and local leaders to facilitate the vaccination process for swift and effective delivery to urban residents;
- Help expand manufacturing capacity in Africa by facilitating technology and knowledge transfer, supporting a temporary intellectual property waiver, licensing, public-private cooperation, and investments;
- Commit to the World Health Organisations target of vaccinating 70% of all country income groups by September 2022;
- Commit to their fair share of the global financial investment – the IMF estimates that vaccinating the world will cost \$50bn but will also yield an economic benefit of \$9tn.

This is a global pandemic that requires a global response: collaboration between Africa and Europe as strategic neighbours is essential, and we as city mayors are ready to play our part to ensure rapid uptake of the vaccine in all our cities.
